

The Centre for People Development's Thriving in the Deep End Learning and Development Programs, 2020

Practical and focussed Thriving in the Deep End is built around identified leadership and management skills and approaches and draws on the issues participants are dealing with in their work. It incorporates training, applied learning and coaching options and provides a suite of leadership tools.

The Stepping Up series targets new and emerging managers and covers five of the critical skills sets they need.

The Doing Better All the Time series is an applied approach to leadership practice to refresh learning for managers and leaders across a wide range of workplace responsibilities.

The Essentials for Effectiveness at Work workshops are designed for accelerated learning and skills development on key career topics.

The Spotlight Sessions (2-3½ hours each) focus on improving key workplace practices.

For information for your organisation about each part of the Thriving in the Deep End programs call Simon Krieg, Director, the Centre for People Development, 08 8351 5827